

Over 150 Archers At Jamboree

Over 150 out of town archers attended the Grayling Sportsmen's Club Bow Hunter's Jamboree at the Grayling Winter Sports Park last Saturday and most stayed over for an organized deer hunt on Sunday.

Those in charge of the affair were more than pleased with the turnout of archers from all over Michigan but were disappointed at the small showing of local people. Plans, however, are underway for making the jamboree an annual event.

All in all, the gettogether proved a grand advertisement for Grayling at a very small cost in proportion to the number of people reached. The committee were profuse with their thanks to Grayling merchants who donated over $100 in swell merchandise prizes, also to Fred Bromwell for the donation of his bear which was cleaned up by the hungry archers after a day's shooting. They also thanked Chuck Piper for the use of his public address system which filled in a big gap when the park's system failed to operate.

A plaque, the replica of the Grayling Sportsmen's Club emblem was shot full of souvenir arrows on which the archers wrote the names and addresses. It will be on display in the warming-house at the park as a memento of the first Grayling Jamboree.

Tommy Johnson of Grayling, Eugene Reeber of Detroit and Mrs. Mario of Ypsilanti were awarded door prizes. Mrs. Bert Jones, 59, of St. Helens won the prize as the oldest registered archer and Holly Piper of Grayling as the youngest girl and Bud Blundell of Muskegon as the youngest boy. John Hauch of St. Joseph was awarded a prize as the archer from the farthest distance.

Hauch also won first in the men's tournament with Wes Blundell of Muskegon winning second and Fred Bear of Grayling third. Alma Blundell of Muskegon won the ladies' tournament with Mrs. Georgia Jones of St. Helens placing second. Doug Becker of St. Helens tied for the juvenile crown with Buddy Newell of Grayling. Jimmy Becker of St. Helens won second.

In the flight shooting, John Hauch of St. Joseph won first with Don Bishop of Grayling second and Wes Blundell of Muskegon third. Bishop also won a special flight shoot with John Blundell and Mrs. Noble of Jackson won in the women's flight shoot.

Doug Becker of St. Helens won first in the juvenile flight shoot with his brother Jimmy placing second. Bobby Strong of Grayling won third.

In the century old wand shoot, in which the archer shoots at a wooden post at 100 yards Mr. Morio of Grayling won first. Glen Day of Grayling was third with the name of the second place winner at this time still undetermined.

Group Discuss New $600,000 Grayling Mercy Hospital

A group of nine Grayling men met at the Nurses Home for a dinner meeting last Wednesday evening and discussed the possibility of the raising of funds to erect a new bed Grayling Mercy Hospital which has been estimated to cost $600,000.

Members of the group were Doctors Claude R. Keyport, C. G. Clippert, J. F. Cook and Rev. Fr. John Breitenstein, Fred Welch, Charles Moore, Maurice Dore, T. P. Peterson and Robert W. Strong. Dr. Keyport traced the history of the present hospital to the group following dinner and told of the shortcomings and inadequacy of the present plant. The present building is far from sufficient to handle patients from the ten counties which to some degree call on the Grayling Hospital for bed room. According to the hospital office records, patients are accepted most every week from Crawford, Antrim, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Kalkaska, Montmorency, Ogemaw, Otsego, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Roscommon Counties. There are no private rooms available in the building whatsoever. There is no way possible to create an isolation ward for the treatment of contagious diseases, it was pointed out.

According to the hospital's books, there were 165 patients taken care of during 1911. In 1921, the hospital's load had increased to 311, in 1931 to 631 and in 1941 to 1,204 patients. In 1947, this past year, 1,574 patients entered Grayling Mercy Hospital for treatment.

Under the State of Michigan's plan for hospitals, the Grayling area was to have but a 30 bed unit. The State Hospital inspector, however, after studying the records of the Grayling Mercy changed the plan to a 55 bed unit for this area.

Of the entire amount of $600,000, which it is estimated that a new building would cost, the Federal Government would donate a third. The Sisters of Mercy would assume a third and the community would have to step forward with a third, or $200,000.

The group meeting last week formed a steering committee for the project and will hold meetings on a more or less regular schedule with the view of forming more concrete procedure after several contacts which are to be made in the next few weeks.

It was the thought by the committee that it would take possibly up to two years or more to get the project in shape for actual construction work to be started.

It is estimated that the hospital has served over 31,000 patients during its nearly 40 years of existence. Many of the people, who have stopped at the hospital's office to thank the Sisters for their wonderful care and service, have made a point of telling the Sisters that they would enjoy the opportunity of aiding in the building of a new Grayling Mercy Hospital when the time came for such an occasion. During the institution's history, they have served patients from all 48 states, the District of Columbia, Canada and several other foreign countries. Out of the city patients convalescing at the Grayling Hospital following medical or surgical attention has brought untold thousands of people into Grayling from a day to two weeks. All this has meant business to the city and its merchants.

The Michigan National Guard since the establishment of Camp Grayling has used Grayling Mercy Hospital as a base hospital knowing that it was well staffed with trained nurses to attend to their members who were either ill or injured. The expansion program of the Michigan Guard, Camp Grayling and the addition of the Air Guard makes the need of an adequate institution more needful than ever.

A common practice at the hospital nowadays during peak loads, is the placing of patients' beds in the hallways. This practice is forced upon the hospital through the inadequate space to care for the ever increasing load of the ill. It is not good for the patient, the hospital or the hospital's workers, but, until a new hospital with sufficient capacity can be built, such fill-in ways of caring for the suffering must be used.

Architectural plans, floor layouts and even possibly the final location of the new building are being passed up by the group until financing plans can be specifically laid out and the money at least partially raised.

AAA Elections Friday - Monday

The schedule has been completed for the annual nomination and election of community and county AAA committeemen who will hold office during 1949, according to announcement by Stanley S. Hummel, present vice chairman of the Crawford-Otsego County AAA Committee.

All farmers eligible to vote in the community committee elections are urged by Mr. Hummel to begin thinking now of their choice for these important positions. He estimated that 40 farmers in Crawford County are eligible to vote. The chairman said that any farmer is eligible to vote if he is owner, operator, or tenant on a farm, which is a program administered by the County AAA committee is carried out until it is determined that such person is not eligible for a co-operator's loan or other support with respect to the federal crop insurance program.

The committee elected will be charged with the local responsibility for administering the farm price support program of local purchase agents and direct purchases of agricultural conservation program for soil improvement and other special farm activities.

Nominating meetings for the purpose of selecting candidates for community AAA committeemen and for naming delegate and alternate delegates to the county AAA convention will be held in the townships between November 1 and 15.

The actual election of the community committee and the county convention delegates will be conducted by mail ballot again this year for the third successive year. After the candidates are duly selected at the nominating meetings, their names will be placed on official ballots.

Way Cleared For C. A. P. Squadron

A letter received by William Johnson, adjutant of the group seeking to form a Civilian Air Patrol Squadron, from Lt. Col. Edwin P. Dalton, commanding officer of the First Group Michigan Civil Air Patrol advises that all necessary forms and tables of organization has been forwarded.

The local group first contacted Lt. Col. Robert G. Lunceford, executive officer of the Michigan S. A. P. He, in turn, directed them to contact Lt. Col. Dalton who is in charge of this area. The adjutant of the local squadron will be started immediately upon receipt of the forms, local temporary officers said.

A letter to the Adjutant General of Michigan by the group seeking the use of building space at Grayling McNamara Airport brought a reply to work through George Schiabel and Col. John Erkes of Camp Grayling. The Adjutant General thought that a permit for space could be worked out, spokesmen for the local group said.

Axel Peterson and Bob Horning are two new cadets that have signed up with the Grayling Squadron that is being formed.

As we on Armistice Day pay tribute to those who gave their lives for their country so that we might preserve our Unity and Liberty we must remember, they gave their lives for all of us. I therefore call on all of you—Catholic, Jew or Protestant—to lay aside religious barriers and differences and join with us on this day as Christians.

The building, to be approximately 50 by 100 feet, would be located on the Old Lake Road at the entrance to the park and over looking the skating pond and the entire winter sports hill. The action was taken upon receipt of a letter from Robert Dodge, Area Parks Supervisor, who advised the group that $12,000 in insurance money from the loss of the toboggan building awaited some concrete plans by the group.

If plans for a new building cannot be worked out satisfactorily a possible enlargement and rehabilitation job may be done on the present warming building at the park, spokesmen of the Grayling Winter Sports group said.

Bid $240,000 For Oil Leases

Over $100,000 was realized by the State of Michigan from the leasing of lands within the Hanson Military reservation for exploration for oil and gas in a two day auction sale at Lansing last week.

One 160 acre plot within the reservation brought the state $10,000 from the Sun Oil Company. In all over 120,000 acres in northern Michigan was auctioned by the state in lively competition among the oil companies with a total bid of over $240,000.

The sale was the greatest in acreage and money in the 20 year history of state oil auction sales, according to Fred Struhsaker, head of the state conservation department's lands division.

Successful bidders won five-year leases to explore and develop lands for oil and gas production. If they start producing, they retain the leases indefinitely with the state collecting royalties on oil and gas taken.

The state placed 144,000 acres of land on the block. Bids ranged from as low as one dollar on some tracts to as high as $100,000 on others. The lands are largely unproven as probable oil and gas producers.

Barbara Plaggen as a bride, was chosen as the best dressed lady. Becky Hamblin as Little Bo Peep won the girls prize and Carol Ann Baynham, dressed as a cowboy won the boys prize. Marie Wilcox was voted the funniest. Several other costumes were very good, making the task of the judges a difficult one. Some of them were: A Belle of the '90's, portrayed by Mrs. Ivan Hamblin; Daniel Boone by Harold Babbitt; and others included a ghost, a gypsy, a Southern Belle, a witch, a hobo, a Hawaiian girl and several comic characters. A delicious lunch of doughnuts and cider, pumpkin pies and coffee was served by the T. N. T. Club. Everyone had a good time.

Probate Judge Clement Wins County Race

As returns slowly came in throughout the Nation, President Harry S. Truman running for the first time for election to the Nation's top post after receiving the mantle after the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt was running slightly ahead of his opponent, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, who was supposed to have been a sure winner according to several impartial polls.

President Truman's vote getting ability was amazing the entire country with the exception of his most rabid backers. The cutting in of State's Rights candidate Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Progressive Party candidate Henry A. Wallace was not up to pre-election guesses.

The Democratic Party apparently had succeeded in wresting control of both the United States Senate and House of Representatives from the Republican Party and was making serious inroads into the body of Republican Governors of many states.

The apparent inaccuracy of several national polls had the average citizen wondering Wednesday morning as radio flashes continued to bring upsets all along the line. In the State of Michigan Governor Kim Sigler was running behind the Democratic opponent, G. Mennen Williams by about 50,000 votes with a large slice of the state's votes already counted.

End Grid Season With 0-0 Tie

The Grayling Green Wave ended their 1948 football season with a lucky 0 to 0 tie with Pellston at the northern town last Friday afternoon.

The Pellston team outcharged the Wave for a 11 to 5 advantage in first downs and at one time were down to the Grayling 4 yard line but lost the ball on a fumble. The game was slowed up and marred by many penalties.

The Pellston offense were strict over tackle power plays run from a T formation. The Wave showed only one spark of offensive play in the early stages of the fourth quarter when they took to the air with Jack Trudeau doing the hurling. Passes were completed to Carl Hanson and Max Niederer and it began to look as though the Wave was rolling but a pass interception snapped the drive.

Bob Bassman showed up well on both offense and defense as did Axel Peterson, John Krage and Carl Hanson. Seniors who were playing their last game were Axel Peterson, John Krage, Carl Hanson and Max Niederer. The game was a close one with Jim Feldhauser and Bill Worden.

Kiwanis Club Notes

"Crawford County can't afford to have gravel roads any longer," stated A. L. Hull, Crawford County road superintendent in a speech before the Kiwanis Club of Grayling last Monday evening.

"With the cost of upkeep and the weight and speed of traffic now days, gravel roads are an expensive proposition," he added in a discussion of the county's black-topping program before the club members. Supt. Hull discussed different types of hard surfacing methods and told of the methods used in this county. He said that they hoped to asphalt surface at least 50 miles of highway within the county. At the present time they are running out of prepared roadway surface conducive to taking the black topping. It will now be necessary to build a base for the program as they go along and will consequently slow up the amount accomplished each year, he pointed out.

The 1947 work cost about $3,200 per mile, whereas the 1948 cost will run about $3,500 per mile. Supt. Hull stated and added that the difference was due to a higher cost of material and an increased labor cost.

Arthur Clough announces the sale of the Frank Anstett house to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson. Dr. and Mrs. Warren B. Cooksey and family spent the week end at Camp Sunrise recently.

Following cards the ladies were seated at two tables decorated for Halloween and a very nice lunch was served by the committee, Mrs. Margaret Tinker, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Amy Gothro and Mrs. Lucille Thompson.

It was the largest crowd to attend a social meeting in some time and the Auxiliary would like to see more next time and also at the business meeting, Tuesday, November 9.

From where I sit...by Joe Marsh

"Husbands, Wives, and Marriage"

Maybe you read that survey published recently in a national magazine, entitled "Husbands, Wives, and Marriage."

It showed that among happily married couples, those who criticized themselves outnumbered those who criticized the other person. Among unhappily married couples, it was just the opposite—each one tended to criticize the other.

That's the way it is in our town, as I guess it is in yours. Criticism, whether it's of a wife's taste for hats, or a husband's taste for pipe tobacco and an evening glass of beer or ale, is a sure start towards unhappiness.

As for what made happy marriages, companionship within the home was listed most important of all. And from where I sit, a husband and wife who can spend an evening by the fire—with nothing more exciting than a mellow glass of beer, and a friendly conversation—are a truly well-matched couple!

Meat and Homes

Some people are unable to buy as much meat as they would like. Some people cannot build homes because of record prices for labor and supplies. During the depression steers on the hoof sold for as little as six cents a pound, and hogs went for three cents. There were people then who could not buy meat or build homes, even at rock-bottom prices. Then, as now supply and demand were the controlling factors in establishing prices—and it is always true that families in the lower income brackets are constantly confronted with the problem of how to make both ends meet.

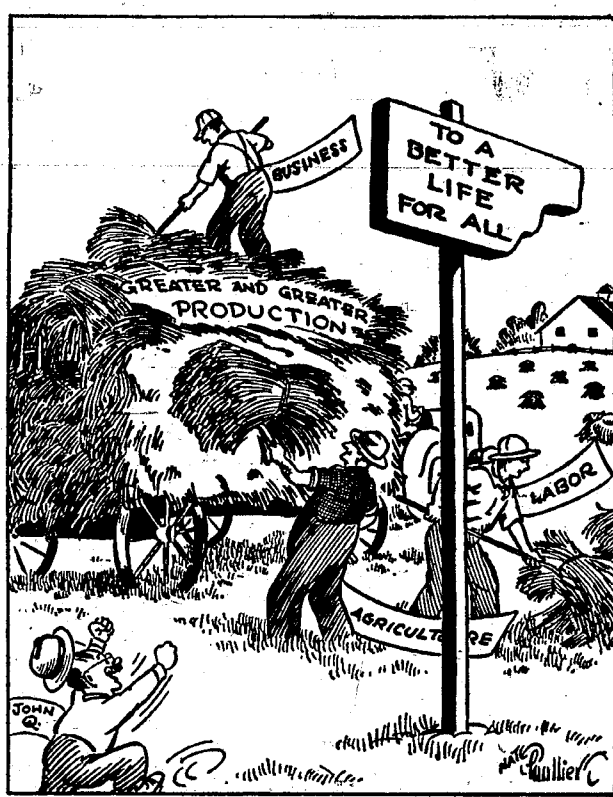

Wages and employment are at record levels. This has generated a tremendous demand for meat. The supply of meat has not kept up with that demand. Last year the feed crops were relatively short. As a consequence, livestock numbers were reduced. The marketing of beef cattle in 1948 has run well below the level of 1947. The point is that for several years we have been eating our beef cattle faster than we have produced them. Meat animals aren't machines that can be swiftly made in any desired quantity on a production line. It takes months and years to ready stock for market and no efficiency expert has found a short cut. When demand tends to be greater than the supply, high prices are inevitable.

A reimposition of price controls would discourage production, and probably bring about an acute meat shortage. Much of the available meat would be diverted into the black market. And the lower income consumers would be worse off than ever.

Increased meat production is necessary. It will come eventually. In the meantime, supply and demand establish the prices at which meat is sold in our free market, and it is folly to blindly condemn farmers, packers or anyone else.

Parts Of Old Arsenal Still Stand In Dearborn

Ann Arbor—Four buildings of the Detroit arsenal which once furnished war supplies for the United States to fight Indians in the Northwest still stand in Dearborn.

Finished in 1837, the arsenal was in use until 1872, according to information in the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.

The arsenal was located on the road to Chicago and close to the Rouge River for convenience of transportation. The 12-foot high, 30-inch thick walls of the arsenal depot enclosed 11 brick buildings about a central square. Each wall was 360 feet long.

Bricks for the walls and buildings were made by hand on what was known as the Dort Farm. They were carried up the Rouge River on a scow and landed at an old dock located about one-half mile west of the present River Rouge bridge on Michigan Avenue.

Construction of the arsenal touched the first land boom in that immediate area as speculators reasoned that an important city soon would rise about it.

The commandant's headquarters is one of the buildings still standing. In excellent condition, it is at the corner of Monroe and Michigan Avenues and now is used as Dearborn Police Precinct station number two. The place where the old arsenal walls joined the headquarters can be seen on the southwest and southeast corners of the building.

The former sutler's shop or commissary, the arsenal magazine and a building where cannon and cartridges were stored are the other buildings remaining. The sutler's shop is on the northeast corner of Garrison and Monroe Streets.

The magazine, where powder and shells were kept, is on Brady Street near Garrison. Now a private residence, its walls are three to four feet thick. The last building is a florist's shop.

During the Civil War soldiers were recruited and trained at the arsenal. After the war a few soldiers were stationed there for guard duty and to work the 235 acre arsenal farm nearby.

As the frontier rapidly moved westward, need for the arsenal quickly diminished. Its commander, Major W. Todd, received orders in 1872 to end all activity there. In 1877 much of the property was sold at public auction and from time to time other parcels were sold or deeded to the local government.

The commandant's headquarters was the last arsenal property to be disposed of. In 1940 it was sold to Dearborn for $250. Believing that this 111-year-old building can best serve the community as a historical museum, the Dearborn Historical Commission now is endeavoring to acquire it for that purpose.

2 Million Tow Jobs Forecast

It may be ultra-beautiful, but the post-war model auto is more likely to stall come cold weather than its pre-war brothers ever were, according to Automobile Club of Michigan's Road Service Manager Fred N. Rehm. Rehm and Michigan's tow-car owners are preparing now for a winter rush of almost 2,000,000 calls from owners of stalled and stuck cars.

Battery failure was responsible for most of the 1,768,000 "can't start" calls Michigan motorists made last year. And although this failure was preventable in almost all cases, gadget-laden new cars which put a too-heavy drain on batteries are causing more can't start calls yearly.

"Radios, heaters, ignition systems, defrosters, cigaret lighters, automatic window raisers are some of the electrical appliances which drain current from batteries," stated Rehm, who annually supervises pulling more cars out of the ditch than any other man in the world. "Low speed driving, frequent starts and long periods when lights must be used help run down batteries. Most winter trips are too short to permit much battery charging, and the battery is the heart of the car." The Auto Club road supervisor pointed out.

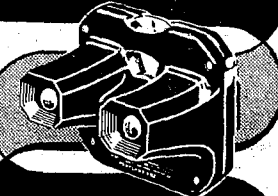

Both manufacturers and car owners can help correct the situation Rehm believes. Batteries and generators in new cars should be stronger to care for the ever-increasing list of electrical appliances. Motorists who don't take long winter trips should have batteries charged frequently in garages and service stations or buy "trickle-chargers." These are box-life affairs which operate on ordinary house current and can charge batteries over night in their owners' garages. These precautions will make one's car start on the coldest morning.

Neglecting almost any part of the car in winter can make the battery's job harder, Rehm reminded. He listed the following five things which will help insure against battery failure when weather makes motors frosty:

1. Keep car in a garage when possible. Direct cold wind congeals oil and makes motors hard to turn over.
2. Check battery every 10 days for water. Test for full charge. Clean terminals and tighten cables. Watch rate of charge or discharge as indicated by dashboard dial. Failure of indicator to show "charge" should be checked at once, Rehm warned. Prolonged operation when battery is not charging will not only ruin battery but also generator and voltage regulator.
3. Check ignition system and distributor points. Clean or replace spark plugs. Motors which start easily use less current.
4. Change to lightweight winter grade grease and oil. Motors which turn over easily use less current.
5. Have carburetor adjusted for cold weather. Stalling engines in cool weather is often caused by poorly-adjusted carburetors.

To delay treatment for cancer can mean death. Early diagnosis and prompt treatment often mean a cure.

The Michigan State Police and State Department of Conservation are again co-operating this year in making available a free registration service for deer hunters who desire to be reached in camp in the event of an emergency at home.

The plan provides that hunters register at the State Police post or Conservation headquarters nearest their camp. Before leaving home they should inform their families or office of the station at which they are registering. Then if an emergency occurs, it is only necessary for those at home to notify the State Police post or Conservation headquarters nearest them and the message will be sent by radio to the registration station from where it will be delivered by an officer of either of the departments.

The registrator will also make it easier to inform persons at home if the hunter suffers an accident or is reported lost.

Only urgent messages will be handled and, in addition, the service is not offered where regular communication facilities can be

Richard Bielski of Grayling is on the Steamer Ernest T. Weir this season. Richard did not like the weather during the trip the Lengs were on but has forgotten it and is now doing fine.

As it now is near Lefty Johnson's birthday and he is not with us this season, we will never forget the great birthday party, the Steamer Albert E. Heekin and crew gave him last November.

Yours the Crew,
By Ed Jungman.
